Clinical Pastoral Education Application Information

What is Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE)?

CPE is graduate-level theological training for leaders of all faith traditions conducted in a clinical setting under the on-site training by a person certified by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc. (www.acpe.edu). This organization, recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, is the premier training source for professionals, whether they serve in faith congregations or in secular institutions (hospital, hospice, penal system, military, nursing facility, etc.). The Cleveland Clinic CPE program is accredited by ACPE to offer all levels of training: from a 400-hour "basic level" internship, to a year-long full-time residency, to advanced training for becoming an ACPE Certified Educator.

Borrowing from the medical training model, CPE takes persons who have completed, or are in the process of completing, a master's degree in divinity (M.Div.) or some equivalent field, and places them in a clinical context to practice interfaith work under supervision. The Clinic's program gives priority to persons with theological training from a graduate school accredited by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (www.chea.org) or an international equivalent (www.professionalchaplains.org). Ordination or endorsement is not required for CPE training, but it is generally required to become a professional chaplain. Students learn (by observation, practice and clinical case presentations) to serve as the spiritual caregiver (chaplain) on the health care team. Student chaplains serve in all capacities within the hospital. According to the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Health Care Organizations (JCAHO), all patients have the right to have their spiritual needs addressed as part of their overall treatment plan.

What is the curriculum?

The CPE curriculum is based mainly in your direct clinical work with people and on the related activities of reflection, discussion, and evaluation with other students and the educators. In CPE you will utilize case studies and other written reflections to present your work for supervision. The focus in seminars will be on what is happening to you, the caregiver, as much as on what is happening to the people receiving your spiritual care. There will be discussions which assist you in understanding theological issues arising from experience. There will be opportunities to learn from the behavioral sciences and to reflect theologically so that you can draw from both in understanding the human condition. You will be challenged to think about groups and social structures as well as individuals in defining your spiritual care. You will be part of a dynamic peer group with other students and your certified educator which will provide opportunities for mutual supervision, care giving, challenge, and appreciation.

Where will I be providing spiritual care?

You will serve as a chaplain on the in-patient units. When you are the on-call chaplain, you will provide care to all emergencies and deaths throughout the hospital's main campus. You will be called upon to provide care to patients, families, and staff according to need and opportunity. Patients at the Clinic come from every state and dozens of foreign countries, even though more than 75% are less than a half-day from home. The clinic includes a wide diversity in age, acuity, disease, race, faith, and income level.

What is a typical day like in CPE?

CPE units may be either full time or part time. One unit will include at least 400 hours of clinical time and education. Three quarters of your time is spent directly with patients, while the other quarter is spent in the educational sessions (individual consultation, peer group, didactic seminars, case study seminars, worship leadership, and team meetings). Extended (part-time) units meet one day per week for all of the educational sessions and the clinical hours are performed at other times, mostly through the on-call rotation. Full-time basic units (summer only) are Monday-Friday from plus evening and weekend on-call shifts. The residency year includes three units and general runs from August to August. Students are provided a stipend and work full-time. At least one unit of ACPE accredited CPE is a pre-requisite for residency.

Who may apply?

Clergy, theological students, members of religious orders, and lay persons with theological training are eligible to apply for a unit of CPE at Cleveland Clinic. Other admission criteria relate to personal and educational readiness for this experience. Your completed application should be 8-10 pages in length. The application includes a non-refundable fee of $25.

Where do I do the admission interview?

The education staff will contact you after receiving your completed application. The interview provides a chance for you and the educator to engage in discussion of your application materials and your goals, in order to help determine your readiness for CPE. The interview will be conducted by the Director of CPE or another member of the education team. Persons unable to come to the Clinic for an interview may arrange for an interview by an ACPE-accredited Certified Educator in your area. There is usually a fee for this interview and write-up, to be sent to the Director of CPE. This is only for the basic unit, however. For the residency year, a face-to-face interview will be required. In general, you will know whether or not you have been accepted into the program within a week of the interview.
